Joe was intrigued with the “True Patriot” displayed in the VVH Town Square and would improvise songs about the horse and his deep connection to it. In true VVH fashion, employees Tammy and Christina worked together to arrange a meeting for Joe and Rita Dee, the artist.

Rita was thrilled to meet a Veteran who had connected with the True Patriot and stated the purpose for the two-year project was to raise awareness of the sacrifices made by our soldiers in service to our freedom and safety. It contains words and messages from students who helped with the project which represents beauty and grace but also strength, courage and nobility of service members and their steeds.

From the Administrator—Melissa Jackson

To our Veterans, Members, Family and Friends,

During 2022, VVH enrolled with the DAISY Foundation as a way to recognize outstanding members of our nursing staff. More information on this program can be found at: About DAISY | DAISY Foundation. This year we received nominations for the following nursing staff members:

Kayla Perkins – 2 nominations	Elise LaBrake
Laurie Dix – 2 nominations	Marjah Toomey
Mary Cicirello	Shannyn MacVicar
Marianne Burnham	Jamie Sherman

A committee, including VVH staff and a Veteran, reviewed all the nominations and decided on our first DAISY Award Winner, Kayla Perkins, LNA. Kayla received two nominations which included the following:

“Kayla gets to know the Vets so well that they love her, and she can help anyone with the care and needs of all Vets on A-wing. She works alongside anyone readily with no complaints. She always gives a great report with the next shift and if she has had the time or forgets something she will say she did not have time or forgot. If a Vet needs something she is right on it and she has also bought Vets snacks when they have asked for them.”

Kayla was described in the following manner by using the PETALS principles:

- P – She always shows deep concerns for all residents on American.*
- E – She feels the resident’s pain and listens to them.*
- T – She is always a team player and helps everyone she works with.*
- A – She is always there to lend a hand to whomever needs help.*
- L – She loves all her residents. She is a kind of spirited person. She always goes above and beyond for all her residents. One of the Veterans was having an “off” night. She sat with him as he was calling out her name. She was there for him when he wanted her.*

Please join me in congratulating all our nominees and Kayla Perkins as our first DAISY Award Winner.

Take Care

To Our Veterans' Home Families:

May 14th to May 20th, we celebrated National Skilled Nursing Care Week. The theme was "Cultivating Kindness". You may have noticed the decorations around the building, or the staff dressed a little "odd" during the week! I am proud to work with the staff here at the VVH, largely in part due to their overwhelming compassion and kindness. The small acts of kindness that occur here every day is one of the things that truly makes this a HOME for those that we serve, rather than another healthcare facility.

Kindness truly is contagious. So much fun was had during this week between the staff, Veterans, members and visitors. I would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every staff member for the kindness that they bring to work every day.

Kindness, much like laughter, is a medicine more powerful than anything science can create!

OUR OWN HERO

June 6, 2023, marks the 79th anniversary of the D-Day invasion of Europe that brought about the end of World War II. It is a day remembered and celebrated in this Country, but more so in France where it took place. Many of the most notable events of D-Day are highlighted in TV shows and movies, but there are lesser known but vitally important aspects of the invasion that took place. One of these was performed by a fellow resident here at the Vermont Veterans' Home, Robert F. Machera Sr.

Bob was a 22 year-old Staff Sergeant with the Army's 668th Engineer Company, and like most D-Day participants, he spent his pre-invasion time in England where he would review aerial reconnaissance photographs of the beaches and countryside on the coast of France and determine the most favorable routes of advance for the American forces during the landing and after securing the beaches. He would use the aerial photographs to determine enemy troop concentrations, movements, fortifications and general topographic features of the land and then transform the information into raised-relief maps, three dimensional representations that allowed troops to see exactly what they would face on the beaches and inland. His map-making duties also included decisions on which bridges to destroy that could assist the enemy in their efforts to resupply and wage counter offensives, and which bridges to safeguard that would assist the Allied Forces as they advanced. His maps were considered "Top Secret" and were crucial to the success of the D-Day invasion and the subsequent liberation of France and the rest of Europe.

Robert F. Machera, Sr.

Raised Relief Map Used for D-Day Invasion

Bob landed on Omaha Beach on D-Day + 4 and continued to receive aerial reconnaissance photographs on a daily basis that he would convert into maps to be used by those who were directing the invasion as they fought their way across France and into Germany. The maps were time sensitive and had to be done immediately upon receiving the aerial photographs, and Robert would perform his duties at the front, armed with an M-1 Carbine and standard infantry gear, along with his camera and map-making equipment.

Omaha Beach D-Day +4

He talked fondly of his time in England prior to D-Day, of jumping off an LCVP (Landing Craft Vehicle Personnel) or better known as a Higgins Boat, and into the water of Omaha Beach, and of the Hedgerows of France that posed such a difficult barrier to the advance of the Allied Forces. He also reminisced about the wonderful people of France and how they loved the American troops, how they “would give us gifts of food and wine and even invite us into their homes.” This affection shown by the French people for the sacrifices of the American forces that fought and died to liberate their country was still there, much to the wonderment of his wife, Josephine, when they visited Normandy 25 years ago.

Born in the Bronx, New York, he resided for many years in Rye, New York and Stamford, Connecticut and traveled daily to New York City where he ran a very successful Creative Advertising business from his 5th Avenue office. He and Josephine recently celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary and are currently residing here at the Vermont Veterans’ Home.

Robert F. Machera Sr. is a true American hero, one of those affectionately referred to as the greatest generation. When I had finished the interview with Bob for this story, he finished our talk with the words “America is the greatest country on Earth.”

Thank you, Robert F. Machera Sr., for your service to our Country.

Generosity and Kindness

There are a great many passages in Scripture which echo this theme: everything good we have is from God. He loves to give. He loves to bless. He loves to show us generosity time and again, and He desires that we reflect His love and openhanded kindness.

Follow Him in Generosity

Our Savior calls us to follow Him in generosity. "For I have given you an example, that you also should do just as I have done to you" (John 13:15). We cannot give our lives for the salvation of the world, of course. Praise God, that job's already done! But with hearts full of thanksgiving for what Jesus has given us, we can follow His example of generous giving.

So, when we bring offerings to the Lord, we should strive to heed His command and follow the pattern He has established for us. Jesus did not give us leftovers. He gave His best. We should not give leftovers, either, but the first and best of what He has given us. Jesus did not give as an afterthought — He gave according to the plan of salvation God established from the foundation of the world. So, when it comes to our own offerings, we should make a thoughtful plan to give generously, in proportion to the way He has blessed us.

We should also give freely, just as Jesus gave freely for us. There is no compulsion involved in our works of love and our offerings to the Lord. We do not give grudgingly, but willingly and cheerfully, each "as he has decided in his heart".

In the same way, our Lord teaches us to give generously out of our love for Him and for our neighbor. Jesus shows us that genuine love is always love "in deed" (1 John 3:18). It is love that sees our neighbor in need and gives generously to help him. It is love that hears the Word of the Lord and does what it says. If we truly love, we give generously. If we give without love, our giving is not truly following Jesus.

Life is short, do all the good you can, whenever you can, for whomever you can.
